5.1 Is Your Response the Basis for a New P-Con Lawsuit?

Any future attempt to file another court case strikes me as further symptoms of emotion prevailing over intelligence. If our exchange goes public, most of the Pro P-Con people would embrace your opinions like mana from heaven regardless of how I reply. They will continue in their ignorance based on your “personal opinions” alone while others who are busy engaged in important preaching work have already put this issue way behind them! Going public is a high-risk proposal but if we go that way, I will be quite interested to learn how others can explain where it is that I have failed to present a credible analysis of the P-Con controversy. I would think you too would be equally interested to see how your opinions would be received by the open community.

The GBC’s hesitancy to formally acknowledge my book may be explained for any number of reasons that we can only guess about. But many esteemed associates have contacted me personally to say how thankful they are that all of Nico’s cheating has finally been fully exposed after 20 years of his bravado. As far as a GBC acknowledgement... I consider their lack of action to be at least partially due to internal bickering, short-sided laziness, personal agendas, and the usual clash of political strategies. It could also be because the book and movie have already been so successful in rubbing out this nonsense, nothing further needs to be said. (Especially considering how likely the usual ISKCON-Bashers will then interpret that to be evidence of collusion with me and use that as their excuse to dismiss the book altogether!).

The usual level of indifference, incompetence, or inattentiveness that the GBC is known for is irrelevant in regards to evaluating the content of DECEPTION. Yes, they can really mess up with a lot of the day-to-day stuff which might take generations to clean up... but, again, that does not make them all deviant crooks or murderers. It is a lot of work to run an international, revolutionary, start-up religious movement introduced at the dawn of Kali Yuga. Some GBCs may have serious personal issues that should disqualify them from the GBC, but that is a different focus and not evidence of murder as the P-Con alleges. To condemn the entire ISKCON leadership for an unproven crime is bigotry and unbecoming of any civilized individual, what to speak of a pensive Vaishnava. Taking our positions to the public forum will give us both an opportunity to offer our viewpoints on a level playing field. After DECEPTION came out, those supporting the Prabhupadanuga website proved how supercilious they were by publishing an article with the absurd attention-getting reactionary title: “The Day William Roberts (mayesvara) Poisoned Srila Prabhupada” (March 9th, 2020 by Prabhupada News <https://www.prabhupadanugas.eu/news/?p=51107>) |

The Day William Roberts (Mayesvara) Poisoned Srila Prabhupada

9. March 2020 by Prabhupada News <https://www.prabhupadanugas.eu/news/?p=51107>

28. July 2020 at 6:23 pm webmaster says:

By commenting here for more than three months, the author of “Deception” (William Roberts-Mayesvara) demonstrated an example of what can be expected in his book. Exactly as written in article foreword:

“Mostly he (Mayesvara) makes up things which are out of the blue, or he twists things around, or just doesn’t get things right.”

By opposing Srila Prabhupadas direct statement recorded on tape, he (Mayesvara) is indeed an accomplice in the poisoning of Srila Prabhupada, by falsifying the truth and protecting the poisoned.”

I responded to their ridiculously uninformed, and misleading statements for several weeks and all they were capable of doing was to repeat the same anachronistic allegations that I rationally explained could not possibly have occurred. They were so incapable of addressing the new content I presented that the webmaster had to do damage control and terminate the exchange by posting the last dastardly word:

“Mostly he (Mayesvara) makes up things which are out of the blue, or he twists things around, or just doesn’t get things right.”

This response is vague, unprofessional, and absurd because it does not say what it is that they allege I made up! I would be very curious to know just what it is they are referring to I was in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania with Radha Damodara/NY Temple since the spring of 1976 and did not leave for India until January 1978. So this is obviously a slur intended to suggest that I was somehow a distant influential accomplice. Wow! Who in their right mind would think I had such a powerful influence over the GBC in 1977 when I was such a young and unknow new member of the Hare Krishna movement? No aspect of the P-Con is based on reason... it is ALL about emotion. I specifically disclosed in the opening chapter of DECEPTION that I was not paid to write the book but it does not matter because those behind the P-Con refuse to read it, despite their sham about claiming to want to know the truth. Your recent critique suffers from the same type of vague dispersions. What evidence will you accept if you are openly admitting that my book might be able to convince a court... but not you? It appears that you have built a subliminal roadblock to protect yourself from having to deal with what is really going on inside you.

5.2 No Matter What You Say... It is Wrong!

Some are so shallow that after they cannot find adequate responses to the points I raise, they just come right out and tell me: “I don’t care what you say, you will never change my mind.” If subconsciously that is your mood, then there is no reason to continue this dialogue. These are the type of people others will consider to be your associates unless you are willing to distance yourself from them. Forgive me if what I am sharing here sounds harsh: If you are not willing to let go of the conditioning that clouds your ability to see how the whole P-Con was a spiteful fraud, then how appropriate is it for you to be in the role of coaching others how they can grow past their own conflicted past? i.e “Doctor heal thyself.”

It seems you are in a similar situation that Vibhishan was in when his brother Ravana got increasingly more bizarre, demonic, and self-destructive. Instead of tolerating his brothers’ selfish choices, Vibhishana renounced him to join Rama and that decision now stands in history as a very wise and great move on his part. Perhaps you assumed a similar line of reasoning when you originally broke away from the GBC? However, by now you should be able to see that every large international religious movement has conflicts that bubble-up and are not so easy to resolve. That is quite different from the intentional malice of questionably stable individuals, willing to make a serious allegation like murder, based on nothing more than frustration, revenge and/or pure contempt.

Taking our exchange public would invite the valuable commentary of the “sadhus,” the third element essential for guiding us towards the truth. (Assuming the are willing to take the time to read this exchange which I suspect many will not do because they don't need my help to realize how contrived the P-Con is!)

Going public is the right thing to do if you are legitimately uncertain about which side of the P-Con fence is closer to the reality of what happened. I believe this is a reasonable proposal because you wrote a 7-page endorsement for the KGBG (p22-29) compilation and have become the hood ornament for those who promoted the rumor. The unfortunate aspect of going public is that doing so could seriously complicate your opportunity to cooperate with ISKCON even further if you eventually realize at some time in the future how important co-operation was towards pleasing Srila Prabhupada.

Ravanas Brother Vibishan & Son Indrajit

When Vibishan realized that Ravana was unrepentant, he took shelter or Lord Ramachandra and his name lives on gloriously!

Vibishan finally realized how demoniac Ravana was and he begged him to surrender. When he refused to do that, he felt bound to not betray him.

That is what I find most disturbing about your response. You are entitled to hold your own view-points... but even Ravana's son, Indrajit realized towards the end how mistaken he was in underestimating Rama and he had the integrity to admitted it to his father. Yet he had his own destiny to fulfill, and still chose to go out to battle against Rama out of respect for his father when Ravana would not surrender knowing that he would perish because of that decision.

I am no Rama by any means... so perhaps that is a bad analogy... but it brings tears to me when I learn how you are so deceived by the sleazy and very immature propaganda that Nico generated. It am astonished to learn that you prefer to cling to the horrible possibility that devotees, who dedicated their whole life to please Prabhupada, would later commit the ultimate act of rebellion by murdering that same person in the most cowardly way! Every testimony included in the Appendix of DECEPTION emphatically concurs that to believe this is to be really lost in maya! Many who personally witnessed the end knew both the foibles and blessings of the accused very well. Yet, you find Nico's insidious propaganda more credible than those who gave so many years of extraordinary service to Srila Prabhupada? By November 1977, Nico had already become so lasciviously entangled with Robin George and the $16 million lawsuit filed against ISKCON, he had to be removed against his will as the temple president in Louisiana. Judge Jackman said in his 20 years behind the bench he never observed a witness who was so transparently dishonest than Nico! His reputation became so terrible that many of those whom he had exploited built a website to warn others of his dirty deals, cheating, lying, and other extremely ugly behaviors. Yet you are still inclined to believe him and not someone as extraordinary as Bhakti Charu Swami? That reflects something very serious adrift inside you that is extremely unsettling!

5.3 It Does Not Become You!

“O conqueror of miscommunication have you heard this with an attentive mind? And are your ignorance and illusions now dispelled?” – (No disrespect to Bg.18.72 intended.)

Your recent letter does not become you. You are far more intelligent than the total lack of reasoning reflected in your letter. Now we face this juncture. You have been so outspoken, it seems the only proper ethical thing for you to do is either reverse your position, or continue to defend it where everyone can benefit from watching you attempt to do that. Unfortunately, the second alternative could burn all the possible bridges that might otherwise draw you up if you can see how you got entangled in something very ugly and bizarre. That need not happen. Yet we all are called to do what we are destined to do even if it means death on the battlefield like Indrajit. He knew what would happen when he faced off with Ram on the last occasion but he made an informed decision knowing he was ethically wrong and it would cost him his life.

I must confess that I do not know if I am more heartbroken, or stunned, by the contents of your letter. It is like having great admiration for your father only to later grow up and discover, that he earned his livelihood exploiting young women to make pornographic movies. You are so capable and intelligent Dhira Govinda, which is why I appreciate your sober willingness to respond, but I am very disappointed by your weak, and vacuous presentation. You said you read my book from cover to cover, but are you intentionally overlooking all the material that destroys the so-called whisper evidence and Dr. Morris’s research? I agree Dr. Morris had no malicious intent... but he was strictly under Nico’s thumb, who had his own agenda. Morris got paid nothing, but his motive was to see what his newly built, state-of-the-art Neutron Activation Analysis (NAA) process could do as far as measuring tiny pieces of hair. His lab had never tried the NAA process on hair samples before Nico approached him, and this is another fact that Nico knowingly misrepresented.

The NAA process was the ONLY tool capable of testing such small samples of hair, and the world class toxicologist from South India Dr. Pillay specifically testified that it was unconventional to use that process. It is possible Dr. Morris was the first researcher to do what he did, which was another payoff for him to indulge in Nico’s witch-hunt. Also, Dr. Pillay testified that no credentialed toxicologist would accept his results without a double-blind test confirming what Dr. Morris reported. Yet this was impossible because the hair samples were destroyed, which is also very suspicious considering that one of the biggest advantages of using the NAA process is it does NOT destroy the sample. DECEPTION provides a lot of evidence exposing how contrived both the whispers and the Cadmium allegations are. What compels you to perpetuate Nico’s nonsense at the cost of ignoring all of these important facts?

There can only be so many explanations for you to keep doing this and that is what is so disheartening about your last correspondence. You are smart enough to realize how messed up the P-Con is. Dr. Morris specifically reminded Nico to NOT eliminate the possibility of external contamination to the hair samples. but Nico specifically stated the opposite. Unlike many of the eccentrics who keep holding on to all this nonsense, you do have the acumen to understand this point. That is why I am compelled to respectfully ask why you choose to ignore these facts and instead just echo Nico’s irrational reasoning? Remember he is also the one who proudly published how much he appreciates the work of the Harry Barns, the defunct historian who successfully kickstarted the Holocaust denial rumors!

5.4 You Share the Reputation of the Company you Keep

Why does Nico support Harry Barns historical madness and what keeps you from loudly denouncing crazy propaganda like this? How can promoting a completely fabricated historic revision of Srila Prabhupadas departure be rationalized to further glorify him? Since when is it better to support a lie than to tell the truth? That is a very important question considering how emphatically Nico states the hair samples could not have been contaminated, which is just the opposite of what Dr. Morris testified! How can anyone, particularly like yourself with a reputation for being a trusted counselor, rely on anything Nico says as correct, especially considering how many places where I exposed how he intentionally misrepresented the facts? Hanging it all on your personal speculations regarding a very controversial conversation Srila Prabhupada had, strikes me as a feeble and unconvincing alternative for not having to disclose more deeply what it is that prevents you from doing the right thing.

In the end... everyone will decide for themselves just what it was that Srila Prabhupada was really communicating. This is an important point because, as you know, people are very good about rationalizing the blind spots they are incapable of seeing and are unwilling to consider. Some are literally so convinced of their interpretations of what Srila Prabhupada said that they will go as far as to create websites proving only how sick their distorted minds can get. Here is a site where the webmaster is filled with so much confusion and hatred that in HIS opinion, Prabhupada did not believe the Holocaust ever happened! (<https://truth.prabhupada.org.uk/>) We both know that, due to conditioning, someone who claims to discover the truth can twist facts and scripture to support whatever they want to believe. That is why we need a healthy network of clear-headed sadhus, Vedic scriptures, and a spiritual master to prevent us from the ubiquitous self-deception commonly referred to as denial. What is unfolding here is as absurd as the deranged individual portrayed in the Hollywood movie called Denial. Perhaps you could benefit from watching it?

Trailer to “Denial” movie. A true story about Holocaust Denial

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=suT3vcz9E6A>

Believing that Srila Prabhupada was accusing his own most trusted disciples of malicious poisoning also requires the additional responsibility of rationally explaining a whole lot of other important related questions, which, so far, the supporters of the P-Con have been woefully incapable of doing. Sidestepping that part of the discussion is unfair to the accused who, according to modern jurisprudence, must be accepted as innocent until proven guilty. Therefore, no court would take this type of reckless finger-pointing seriously. That is why most objective individuals completely reject the allegations of the P-Con, because there is no plausible explanation how it could have ever happened as alleged.

Symptoms of Cadmium Poisoning: Cadmium attacks the bone and, if it is chronic poisoning, we will usually see one of two conditions. One is called osteomalacia, which is a softening of the bones, while the other is osteoporosis, where the bones become brittle. Both of them often cause severe bone pain, weakness, and easy fractures, none of which I have come across here. The whole thing appears like somebody has already decided that A) it is poisoning, and B) we should say it is cadmium. So, now what are the things that we can get to fit into this picture? It looks like that. I am sorry to say I feel that the whole thing has been constructed like that; you have already decided that you want to prove this. Now let us gather some evidence to prove it. That is why I am really disturbed about this; the whole thing is a mess.

Doing What is Right or Doing what Is Easy?

After looking at everything Nico did, one can only conclude that his campaign is not for the truth, but for a lynching. Dr. Pillay, is a world-recognized, credentialed toxicologists in India, and he was careful to speak very professionally, but, in the end, he ultimately came to that same conclusion, although he did not say it so bluntly. I believe the disciples of Srila Prabhupada deserve to have the same type of standards of evidence that anyone else in this country is entitled to when they are accused of any misbehavior, especially with an allocation of something as serious as murder of their own spiritual master! If some are so convinced about the P-Con that they are again preparing to file another lawsuit in India, then our public discussion on the Akinchana website would be a current event and of interest to everyone.

Reluctantly, I feel another attempt to file a lawsuit would be a good exercise for those foolish enough to fund such a futile effort to expose a P-Con coverup in ISKCON that never happened. Bring it on for a 2nd round and I will gladly assist council on behalf of the defendants. Some learn by hearing. Some learn by discovering on their own. But fools never learn. This was attempted in 2003, and it went nowhere. Still, some are so invested in trying to prove something that did not happen that they might wager more large sums of laxmi to keep trying to force their agenda. This is a shame when that laxmi could be more properly engaged if it showing up on the sankirtan report instead of the accounts receivable for some agenda driven attorneys. Spending to initiate reckless legal actions was repeatedly scorned by Srila Prabhupada so any further actions by the P-Con advocates exposes just how conflicted anyone who does that really are.

All there is at the core of this vicious rumor is hearsay, conjecture, scabby allegations, a whole lot of unchecked emotion and numerous examples of fraud. It is all been intentionally worded to stir up public indignation and it is all based on a skewed presentation of ambiguous incidents. For example:

7.2.2 HDG Note 1: All Concur, HDG Did NOT Say It!

The agenda driven T-Com needs everyone to accept their contrived embellishments on what Srila Prabhupada said to keep their ruse alive. Here we discover something quite revealing. The T-Com admits that His Divine Grace, did not say he was being poisoned and they just made that quote up!

“He never said, ‘... They have poisoned me.’ It is we (investigating)<sup>(1)</sup> with facts<sup>(2)</sup> and hind-sight who see it as a cabal at work<sup>(3)</sup>” -Judge For Yourself p. 70

- (1) Those who are investigating are the reliably incompetent agenda driven Truth Committee.
- (2) Not very many facts involved here but a whole lot of bitterness, resentment, suspicion, speculation, contempt, anger, and hurt etc.
- (3) They look for what they want and if it is not there they just make it up! (atmavan manyate jagat)

5.5 Doing What is Right or Doing what Is Easy?

It is easier to keep the door open for this frivolous ploy then it is to consider the whole picture--- the way a real court and jury would. The average person is more inclined to do the easier thing than the right thing. That is why ISKCON-Bashers have been able to get so much traction from the rationally challenged. Is that your concept of personal integrity?

It is un-Vaishnava- like to make such a serious accusation as murder based on what you have rightfully admitted is just your OPINION based only on one very controversial statement by his Divine Grace that ignores all the other evidence. I believe the accused devotees deserve at least the same jurisprudence any person is entitled to in a formal courtroom but apparently you prefer trial by lynch mob? Ironically this will never show up in a courtroom because there is not enough significant evidence to convince a prosecuting attorney to take the case! That lack of evidence is why most devotees are not willing to give the P-Con any further consideration or time, including the GBC. This is not a case of accepting gold from a filthy place. Creating a completely fictitious tale under the ploy of portraying Srila Prabhupada like Jesus is not gold. If it is a lie, it is pig stool.

I apologize for using strong words, because I know that is a big part of what leads to the breakdown of communication and growth. But it is disingenuous for those who buy into the P-Con lie to accuse my work of being offensive after they prematurely accuse others of murder! That is further evidence of upside down, incongruent, and evasive reasoning!

There was a great TV show called “Scared Straight,” which was effective in getting kids to rethink the prudence of their direction in life. They took these punk kids to state prisons to meet the inmates who got up-close and personal with them. They gave them a first-hand look of where they will end up if they did not reject their current social circles. Many of these inmates were very big physical guys and they spoke using harsh street language to scare the juvenile pride out of these punk kids. You can think of it as shock therapy but it changed the direction of the lives for many of the youth who participated.

“Compromise and flattery have no effect where strong words are required.” -Perfection of Yoga

I have always perceived you to be an extraordinarily, capable, and good person but now I feel like Vibishan attempting to convince Kumbakarana to walk away from the terrible influence his older brother Ravana had on him. Kumbakarana had the acumen to understand how Ravana’s obsession for Sita would lead to the destruction of all Lanka... yet as his younger brother he felt obliged by dharma to support him anyway. He faced the same problem Bhishma was in with Duryodhana. But you do not have any compelling reasons to continue to prop up a horribly destructive rumor that no person has yet to reasonably explain could have possibly happened. What is your pay-off for keeping the door open on this terribly destructive rumor?

“Denial is a classic symptom of unhealthy rage.” From the movie: EXIT WOUNDS

At this point it appears your motives are as selfishly delusional as the lady who had her own reasons to convince the world she was an illegitimate daughter of Salvador Dali.

2.2.2.6 PCON-Propaganda Insurance.

“The renowned surrealist artist Salvador Dali was exhumed thirty years after he was buried simply to get DNA samples. That was necessary because Maria Pilar Able insisted she was his illegitimate daughter. She convinced the court that the exotic artist had an extramarital affair with her mother and the only way it could be proved was to have the famous artists exhumed. By the fall of 2017 biological evidence confirmed that “The DNA tests show that Senora Abel was NOT Dali’s daughter,” The courts later ruled that Maria Able had to repay the Salvador Dali Foundation for all the costs they accrued in proving her allegations were imaginary. It is not confirmed at this time if Senora Able accepted responsibility for the tremendous chaos her delusional beliefs caused to so many innocent people. “

5.6 Valid Critique OR Just Damage Control?

The fact that you spent so much time critiquing just the title of my book strikes me as a distractive attempt to discredit the whole book. I can understand how the terms I used may sound insulting to those who have invested so much into propping up the P-Con, but we both know that it is the duty of a brahmin to call a thief a thief and for that there is no sin. I certainly have a lot more evidence to call the P-Con a Con-job—than anyone has to accuse Tamal Krishna of murder. So, I am not upset about your comments, but pointing out literary flaws in the title, for whatever reason, seems to be clutching at straws. My poor writing skills or lack of sensitivity has absolutely NOTHING to do with how Srila Prabhupada left this world. It feels like you are more willing to tolerate the contempt of those who blindly promote the P-Con no matter how absurd their allegations are, than you are to disregard my poor writing skills if they expose the injustices caused by this ill-spirited rumor. That is another mystery for me considering how astute and compassionate you are in helping those who attend your seminars to peel off layers of their own traumatic false beliefs.

The question now is how to proceed. After all this effort I would like to at least share your letter to those in my personal locus of influence but it would be more effective, honest and expedient to open our exchange up to the general public on Akinchan Gochara. If you remain un-convinced that the P-Con was an ill-spirited horrendous scam, then it seems dastardly to NOT continue exploring this issue in the public square---- like dueling kshatriyas willing to stake everything in the pursuit of dharma. You may take your time to consider this carefully, but it seems to me that postponing a response for more than three months now would not be a sign of good faith.

Please give this letter careful thought and let me know your position. I beg your forgiveness if due to my own immaturity, blind spots, ignorance, or presumptions I have unknowingly offended you in some thought-less way. Srila Prabhupada is my spiritual master, and I personally knew all the people that have been accused of murdering him. They had their shortcomings, but they were not murderers. That is why I feel compelled to lift this discussion out of the cesspool that Nico created. If it requires a serious public exchange to iron out the mistruths, then I feel it is my dharma to do that the best I can do so.

Valid Critique OR Just Damage Control?

"To err is human. Anyone commits mistake. There is no doubt about it. But after committing mistake, if I stick to that mistake, that is foolishness. When it is detected that it is mistake, you must admit. That is greatness." (Srila Prabhupada Morning Walk, Bhuvaneshvara, Feb. 1, 1977)

I hope this meets you in good health and ongoing memories of The Supreme Personality of Godhead!
